COSMIC MONSTERS

UNIVERSAL

"Cosmic Monsters," the talk of the town in the amusement field, now makes its debut as an upright, and promises to become the star TV game machine in every game corner. With its exciting features, "Cosmic Monsters" is capturing the hearts of more and more TV game fans. Its attractively designed cabinet and fascinating sound effects will be a popular addition to your game center.

UFO

UFO appears behind the monsters as they move to reach the front of the screen. Here's your chance to shoot the UFO down and add up points. But if you get too absorbed in the UFO, you put your laser guns in danger. When you hit a UFO, your score — 50, 100, 150 or 200 points — is displayed.

Monsters

Wily robot rays shooting out of their weapons and destructive missiles flying from their bodies, the monsters try to destroy your laser guns, ratching at you from the side of the screen. These monsters are your targets. They line off and your score goes up. Depending on the type of monster, you get 10, 20 or 30 points. Destroy all the monsters, and a new bunch appears closer and closer to your laser guns, making the game more and more difficult.

Station

There are four defense bases for protecting your laser guns from the monster's direct assault. The point is to wipe off the monsters by taking shifful advantage of the stations. As each new group of monsters appears, your deployed stations come back on the screen.

Laser Guns

Destroy the monsters by moving your laser guns from side to side with the special knob. Press the fire button to launch the laser missiles. Hit a monster and it explodes with a horrifying shriek. The key to mastering the game is skillful operation of the laser gun and well-timed missile launchings. As each laser gun is destroyed, a reserve gun appears at the bottom left of the screen and the game continues (For two-player alternate turns).

Reserve Guns

The remaining number of laser guns is constantly displayed. The game continues until all the laser guns are destroyed. If your score reaches a certain level, you can enter a pool of laser gun resupply.

The number of laser guns and the variety of station points are set to increase with the difficulty.
